

11. Quilts of Valour Eligibility Criteria

Canadian Armed Forces members, past or present, who are ill or injured as a result of their service to Canada, qualify for a Quilt of Valour.

Our first priority is to supply the Transition Centres (TC) across Canada. The TC's assist us by presenting Quilts of Valour to service members currently being medically discharged, who are ill or injured as a result of their service.

Some examples of members who automatically qualify for a QOV are those who served in: WWII, Korea, Bosnia, Rwanda and the Gulf Wars.

There are many other areas of violent conflict / theatres of war (e.g. Afghanistan) peacekeeping missions and general regular / reserve duty in which members past and present may have suffered illness / injury as a result of their service, including duty within Canada and abroad.

Recipients are only eligible to receive one Quilt of Valour.

Members who have been dishonourably discharged are ineligible to receive a Quilt of Valour.

If you receive a request and are not sure if the individual qualifies, please contact your Regional Coordinator for assistance.
